Methodology Overview

CALEA serves as the premier credentialing association for public safety agencies and provides accreditation services for law enforcement organizations, public safety communication centers, public safety training academies, and campus security agencies. The standards are promulgated by a board of 21 commissioners, representing a full spectrum of public safety leadership. The assessment process includes extensive self-assessment, annual remote web-based assessments, and quadrennial site-based assessments. Additionally candidate agencies are presented to the Commission for final consideration and credentialing.

CALEA Accreditation is a voluntary process and participating public safety agencies, by involvement, have demonstrated a commitment to professionalism. The program is intended to enhance organization service capacities and effectiveness, serve as a tool for policy decisions and management, promote transparency and community trust, and establish a platform for continuous review.

CALEA Accreditation is the Gold Standard for Public Safety Agencies and represents a commitment to excellence.

Law Enforcement Accreditation

CALEA standards reflect the current thinking and experience of Law Enforcement practitioners and researchers. Major Law Enforcement associations, leading educational and training institutions, governmental agencies, as well as Law Enforcement executives internationally, acknowledge CALEA's Standards for Law Enforcement Agencies© and its Accreditation Programs as benchmarks for professional law enforcement agencies.

Site-Based Assessment Review:

From 11/30/2020 to 12/2/2020, Karen Ashley and Lynn Odenthal visited the agency following a consultation with the chief executive officer regarding critical issues impacting the organization since the last assessment. These issues were identified as:

- District Command and Community Engagement The Hayward Police Department recognizes the importance of community engagement and involvement, and has embraced this concept through their District Command program. Members of the District Command Team embrace 21st Century Policing, and understand the critical importance of building trust, open and transparent communication, and community outreach and engagement.
 They are all long-term problem solvers who lead and communicate well with internal and external stakeholders.
 This is an excellent example of community policing at its finest.
- Recruitment and Training The Hayward Police Department is truly vested in its greatest resource its personnel. Agency leadership has demonstrated that they want everyone to be successful. The agency values informal and formal mentoring and embraces a lifelong learner model. The Assessment Team noted that, whether it is preparing for a skills test in the police academy, to learning how to handle the news media at an active scene, Hayward employees are encouraged and assisted by their supervisors and their peers to be prepared, be successful, and successfully represent and protect the community of Hayward.
- Social Media Engagement The Hayward Police Department has been very visionary with its decision to embrace social media and be a leader with this communication platform. Community support has increased as demonstrated by the number of followers the agency has now. The Department continues to look at new and better ways to connect with their stakeholders, and is currently working to develop virtual reality experiences, where a person can experience real time as a patrol officer, a dispatcher, on a SWOT response, or during training. This will provide citizens a closer look at what happens behind the scenes with the Hayward Police Department and how their employees are working to protect and represent the community. The agency has taken social media seriously and is now leading the industry, displaying how social media can work for an agency that properly invests in the program.

• Youth and Family Services Bureau/School Resource Officer Program - The Hayward Police Department has been a leader with prevention and intervention programs involving at-risk youth and families. The Youth and Family Services Bureau (YFSB) has been embedded within the organization for over forty (40) years. Dr. Emily Young and her team provide exceptional services to the community. In addition, the presence of School Resources Officers on school campuses throughout Hayward that are funded primarily by the Hayward Police Department provides an additional service to the community and a presence that allows solid relationships to be built early on with the community. Hayward SROs do not have an enforcement focus, rather their primary goal is to serve as mentors and positive role models for the students. SROs, members of the YFSB, and the Hayward Unified School District have formed an effective partnership and demonstrate their commitment to the community with this early investment in youth and families.

This model program should be replicated nationwide. The Assessment Team was genuinely impressed with the City of Hayward's commitment to youth and families. It is recommended that their unique approach be marketed outside of their geographically area, as this would greatly benefit other communities.

During the Site-Based Assessment Review, the assessment team conducted 36 interviews regarding the topical areas previously defined. The interviews were with agency members and members of the community. The approach not only further confirmed standards adherence, but also considered effectiveness measures, process management and intended outcomes.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER PROFILE

Toney Chaplin

Chief Toney Chaplin was sworn in on October 3, 2019 as Hayward's 15th Chief of Police.

A veteran of the San Francisco Police Department (SFPD), Toney held every rank in SFPD from Patrol Officer through Interim Chief of Police. Chief Chaplin holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Organizational Leadership from Colorado State University, and served as a SFPD Academy instructor and as a guest instructor at City College of San Francisco. He is a recipient of the Silver Medal of Valor, SFPD's second highest award. Chief Chaplin is a U.S. Army veteran and has resided in the City of Hayward with his family since 2006.

COMMUNITY PROFILE

The City of Hayward, incorporated in 1876, is in Alameda County, CA, within the East Bay sub-region of the San Francisco Bay Area. The City is situated twenty-five miles southeast of San Francisco, fourteen miles south of Oakland, and twenty-six miles north of San Jose. Hayward began as a small resort community surrounded by agriculture and has evolved into a vibrant city of many cultures, histories, and neighborhoods. Hayward encompasses approximately sixty-four square miles and is called the "Heart of the Bay" because of its central location in Alameda County and its welcoming culture.

Hayward's population of approximately 160,000 people makes it the sixth largest city in the San Francisco Bay Area. The population is diverse, including 11.9 percent African American, 40.7 percent Latino, 34.2 percent White, and 13.2 percent Other or Multiracial residents. Many Hayward residents are foreign-born and speak a language other than English.

The Hayward median household income is approximately $80,000. Education levels among Hayward residents indicate 82 percent high school graduates, and 27 percent with a bachelor's degree or higher. The largest employers in the City include the Alameda County Sheriff's Department, Berkeley Farms (food and beverage), California State University, East Bay Campus, Chabot College, City of Hayward, Hayward Unified School District, Impax Labs, and St. Rose Hospital. Critical infrastructure within Hayward includes Hayward Executive Airport and two Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) commuter rail stations.

The City of Hayward is governed by an elected Mayor and six City Council members. The Hayward Police Chief is appointed by the City Manager who is selected by the Mayor and City Council.

AGENCY HISTORY

The Hayward Police Department (HPD) has been honored to serve the Hayward community as a CALEA accredited agency continuously since 2011. The agency has an outstanding and close relationship to the community that is strengthened by two substations, North District Command and South District Command. A unique feature of HPD is the Youth and Family Services Bureau (YFSB) that has provided no-cost professional mental health services to Hayward students and adult residents for more than forty years. The YFSB includes eleven professional mental health clinicians and nine School Resource Officers (SROs) who are supervised by Dr. Emily Young, Psy.D.

In March 2020, and despite challenges imposed by the COVID-19 pandemic, Chief Chaplin in conjunction with the City Council convened the first meeting of the Citizens' Advisory Committee (CAP) to the Chief of Police. The CAP process was conceived in 2019 by former Chief Mark Koller and the City Manager as a proactive response to growing national and regional discussions regarding policing. The CAP consists of twelve Hayward residents chosen by the Mayor, City Manager, and the Chief of Police from a pool of candidates recommended by the City Council and reflective of the City's diverse population; it is a cross section of Hayward businesses, adults, youth, and nonprofit organizations who will provide grassroots advice and information to the Chief in key decision-making processes. HPD looks forward to maintaining its longstanding dedicated service to the Hayward community.

AGENCY STRUCTURE AND FUNCTION

The Hayward Police Department is divided into five divisions including the Office of the Chief, Investigations, Patrol, Special Operations, and the Support Services Division.

The Office of the Chief is headed by the Police Chief, and includes CALEA Accreditation, Policy, Planning, and Research, and Internal Affairs. The Investigations Division is commanded by a Captain, and includes the Criminal Investigations Bureau, the Special Investigations Bureau, and the Youth and Family Services Bureau. The Patrol Division is commanded by a Captain and is responsible for all patrol operations within the agency. The Special Operations Division, also headed by a Captain, is responsible for the Reserve Officer Bureau, the Office of Personnel and Training, Northern District Operations and Southern District Operations, and Special Operations Teams comprised of the agency's traffic unit, canine unit, emergency preparedness unit, and Special Response Unit (SWAT). The agency's Support Services Division is commanded by a civilian manager who oversees Police Records, Jail Operations, Information Technology, Animal Services, Budget and Finance, Property and Evidence, Crime Scene Investigations, and the agency's Emergency Communications Center.

AGENCY SUCCESSES

The Hayward Police Department (HPD) had three noteworthy successes in 2020.

The first success was the initial convening of the Citizens' Advisory Panel (CAP) to the Chief of Police in March 2020. The CAP hit the ground running, meets regularly, and provides significant input and recommendations to the Chief and the the City Manager regarding law enforcement and public safety in general. The second success was the maintenance of essential law enforcement services in the City throughout the disruption of the COVID-19 pandemic, despite the closure of City Hall and all nonessential services from March 11, 2020 to date. The third success was HPD's successful completion of last year's CALEA remote file review process.

FUTURE ISSUES FOR AGENCY

As of October 2020, there are three issues that may impact HPD's service delivery in the next three to five years.

The first issue is the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the physical and economic health of the agency and the City itself. To date, the agency sustained only one tragic loss and the City is maintaining reasonable services and staffing with a series of furloughs. The second issue is a small but vocal organization that seeks a significant reduction in funding for HPD.

The reduction "demand" was presented to City Council and currently is under consideration by the Council and the CAP in this election season. The third issue is the recruitment of staff, particularly sworn personnel. Recruitment for law enforcement is a national challenge, and HPD is no exception. Currently, HPD has approximately twenty sworn vacancies and competes for personnel with several San Francisco Bay Area agencies. Recruitment of professional staff also is challenging. The fourth issue is capital improvements. HPD needs a new police station because the current facility is too small for ideal service delivery and cannot maintain ideal support for data services. The City and HHPD continue searching for potential sites for relocation and/or development; the economic challenge is significant with estimates for a new police building in excess of $100 million. The fifth issue is equipment. The Department would benefit from the addition of drones for improved law law enforcement services, safety, and maximizing the use of staff time. The Chief and Command Staff are working with City Hall to address this import need in this difficult funding environment.

SITE-BASED ASSESSMENT

1/14/2021

Planning and Methodology:

The Assessment Team conducted a virtual meeting with Hayward Police Chief Toney Chaplin, Captain Bryan Matthews, and Accreditation Manager Scott Turner on Friday, November 5, 2020, to discuss the site-based assessment that would be conducted November 30 through December 2, 2020. During the meeting Chief Chaplin welcomed the Assessment Team and discussed what he and his staff had decided would be the focus areas of this review.

The four (4) focus areas chosen by the agency include District Command and Community Engagement, Youth and Family Services, Recruitment and Training, and Social Media Engagement. The agency, like other law enforcement agencies across the country, has been challenged by the COVID-19 pandemic and the concerns of citizens pertaining to social and criminal justice reform, but Chief Chaplin felt his agency had performed well under these additional pressures and continued to serve their community with compassion and pride.

The virtual assessment began on Monday, November 30, with a meeting with Chief Chaplin and his Command Staff via Microsoft Teams. The agency's Public Information Officer, Michael Wright, developed a virtual tour for the Assessment Team which high-lighted their current headquarters and all functional areas of the agency. This tour gave the Assessment Team an opportunity to meet several members of the organization and learn about their assigned functions and roles in the agency. It was evident to the Assessment Team that the agency embraces CALEA and utilizes the standards as the foundation for the services they provide to their community.

The Assessment Team spoke with Chief Chaplin about the future challenges the agency faces. The Chief was highly complimentary of the talented staff at the Hayward Police Department and their commitment to the community. In turn he was also very grateful for the community support of the agency, especially now with nation-wide civil unrest and the national "defund the police" movement. The Hayward Police Department has long-established community trust with the vast majority of their residents who have supported them throughout this time.

The Assessment Team learned through interviews that Chief Chaplin stood up the Community Advisory Panel when he was appointment as Police Chief in 2019. The Community Advisory Panel was created to provide the Chief of Police and Hayward Police Department with direct community input, provide community members with direct access to the Chief about perceived issues related to the department, the formation of strategies and concepts around community policing, to increase public awareness, and provide a neutral, third-party insight that supports a productive and inclusive exchange of ideas to be considered in the department's decision-making process. Citizens can contact the panel in the event they have questions or concerns and do not feel comfortable approaching the agency. The Advisory Panel assists the Chief with feedback on public perception issues, and serves as another connection between the agency and community members.

Chief Chaplin told the Assessment Team that the number one complaint they receive is about traffic and traffic-related concerns. He said the agency is understaffed, and it is most evident in the traffic unit. Currently the agency has four (4) traffic officers, and he said he believes twenty (20) motor officers are needed for the volume of traffic that traverses through the City of Hayward every day. Chief Chaplin said staffing has been an issue for the agency, and national recruiting challenges also impact the agency's ability to find and hire qualified applicants. The agency would benefit greatly if it had the ability to over-hire, however vacant positions have been frozen due to the pandemic.

Future issues for the agency also include the need for a new headquarters. The current facility is old and outdated, and expansion of this facility due to its age is not a cost-effective option. Employees are out of office space, and the condition of the facility does have an impact on morale. The Chief would like the agency to also focus on improving technology, as their current reporting systems are slow and require a tremendous amount of staff time to gather state mandated data. He feels an investment in this area will greatly benefit the agency and be more cost effective in the long run.

District Command and Community Engagement

The Hayward Police Department serves a diverse population, and each neighborhood within the City of Hayward has its own unique challenges and concerns. The agency has embraced community policing and has found that their approach to this concept through their District Command program has strengthened relationships and built community trust. District Command has two district offices which were created to better serve the residential and business communities in Hayward. Each district office is designed to be staffed by one Lieutenant, two Police Officers, one Crime Prevention Specialist and One Community Service Officer. Both District offices are off site from the police department having their own store front to allow a high level of accessibility to the community. The District Command Lieutenant 's primary role is to serve as the department's liaison with the community. The District Command members serve as a conduit between both the community and the police department as wells as the Police Department and City Hall regarding chronic neighborhood issues or any situations that are affecting quality of life for Hayward residents.

Lieutenant Ryan Cantrell oversees the agency's District Command, which operates out of two (2) Resource Centers, one in the northern portion of the city and one in the southern portion of the city. Lieutenant Cantrell currently supervises two (2) Sergeants, four (4) Officers, and two (2) civilian Crime Prevention Specialists. This team handles all community engagement events for the police department, networks with other city departments as well as the private sector and non-profit organizations to address quality of life issues in the community of Hayward. While the COVID-19 pandemic has caused many events to be cancelled or held virtually, the agency has placed an emphasis on community engagement, transparency, and community education.

District Command oversees many popular programs that have allowed the agency to build exceptional community trust. COVID has recently cancelled some of the scheduled events, but the agency has worked hard to establish ties with their community through a variety of community programs. Some of the programs highlighted for the Assessment Team include a monthly Coffee with a Cop, three (3) educational academies that include a 9-week long English and Spanish Community Academy, and a week-long summer Youth Academy, their robust Block Watch, Senior Volunteer Program, Explorer Program, a summer Downtown Street Party, and the annual Holiday Toy Drive. These popular programs, along with the District Command Teams' approach to problem solving in the community, have been successful at addressing complaints from citizens on a variety of issues, one of which includes the increase in the homeless population. According to Lieutenant Cantrell, 85% of the Unit's current workload is due to the homeless population and the COVID pandemic.

The agency works in partnership with the City's Navigation Center to address the myriad of issues that accompany homelessness and assist with social services and housing. The Navigation Center just celebrated its one (1) year anniversary serving the unsheltered, is equipped with forty-five (45) beds and a host of resources and contacts to aid this vulnerable population with job skills and housing. The outreach by the agency has been successful in addressing community issues and concerns, as the officers assigned to District Command have developed exceptional relationships with these stakeholders. Officer Roberto Gonzalez is one of the officers assigned to this unit. He told the Assessment Team that he has established trust with this segment of the population and knows many of them by name. He partners with non-profits and other organizations to perform outreach and develop deeper relationships that build on that trust. Building trust is critical, and Officer Gonzalez is able to utilize his interpersonal and communication skills to do that. He also serves as the agency's Crisis Negotiator Lead and is a former School Resource Officer. He enjoys problem-solving, and looks for long-term solutions to issues and challenges his community members face.

Sergeant Tommie Clayton is one of two sergeants assigned to District Command. He told the Assessment Team that the COVID pandemic has had a negative impact on the homeless population and has hampered what they are able to do to address abatements. He and his teammates have worked with non-profits in the area as well as other community partners to assist with short-term and long-term housing. Sergeant Clayton has also been working on re-establishing the Police Activities League (PAL) program in Hayward. This program has been inactive for many years, and has since lost its 501C3 non-profit status. Prior to COVID he had made great strides in planning for the rebirth of this program, and hopes to have it up and running again as soon as it is safe to do so. The first program on his to-do list is to start a soccer league for girls. He has partnered with local businesses and youth ministers in the area to assist him in getting their PAL program up and running again in the near future.

Sergeant Faye Maloney is the second sergeant assigned to District Command and oversees the North Resource Center. She also serves as the agency's homeless response coordinator. Homelessness is a huge issue for the City and creates a large volume of calls for service. The City of Hayward has experienced a large number of homeless encampments throughout the city. Currently, because of the COVID pandemic, the agency can only abate homeless camps that pose a fire hazard or are a health and safety issue. She said she enjoys the collaborative approach taken by the City of Hayward, Code Enforcement, Fire Department, Public Works and Streets Maintenance to provide resources and social services to tackle the issues associated with this segment of the population. Sergeant Maloney also coordinates the agency's 9-week Spanish speaking Community Academy and recently hosted the last class virtually. She and Sergeant Clayton work with faith-based community leadership to build relationships, answer questions about the department posed by their members, and keep open the lines of communication.

Sergeant Maloney is also the agency's Holiday Toy Drive coordinator. During the virtual site-based assessment the agency was busy gathering toys and raising funds for this event. Every member of the District Command Team we spoke to was excited about this program and the ability for it to make a difference in the lives of the less fortunate children and families in their community. COVID has not been able to put a damper on this program. In fact, the agency normally sponsors 120 families but this year they have increased that to 160 families thanks to generous donations from the community. Over 35 thousand dollars in new toys and 7 thousand dollars in cash donations have been received for this event, making it the largest toy drive they have ever had. While the event itself will not allow for a large community gathering, the agency has arranged for a drive-through for these families to safely receive their gifts and celebrate the holidays.

The Assessment Team spoke to Crime Prevention Specialist Gayle Bleth. She has worked for the agency for fifteen (15) years and said she loves her job and working on outreach programs for the community. She is responsible for coordinating the agency's ride-along patrol for non-police applicants, and oversees the agency's Community Academy. Unfortunately the monthly Coffee with a Cop program has been suspended since April. The agency normally has twelve (12) of these annually, with six (6) in the northern sector and six (6) in the southern sector. In April Ms. Bleth helped host a virtual Community Academy and graduated over fifty (50) attendees. Ms. Bleth is the current President of the California Crime Prevention Officers Association (CCPOA) and has served on the Board for the last three (3) years. Her involvement with this organization has enabled her to network well, which in turn benefits the agency and the community.

Recruitment and Training

The Hayward Police Department has a very successful program for the recruitment, selection, and training of police personnel. The success in these areas can be attributed to the adaptability of the agency. Further, agency leadership and members are forward thinkers with a desire to recruit, select, train and retain applicants to better serve the community of Hayward. Lieutenant Cantrell of the Hayward Police Department represents the agency's well-branded recruitment program. It represents the agency's values as well as recognizes the personnel of Hayward Police Department as an investment in the agency's future. If there is a brand or word to encapsulate the Hayward Police Department, it is "family." Agency leadership and members, when asked about the Hayward Police Department, commented that the Department feels like home and like family. Lieutenant Cantrell explained that this agency branding is intentional. The Hayward Police Department focuses on community policing and represents the agency in photographs, videography, and messaging as being family focused. Not only does this embody the feeling of Hayward Police Department, but agency leadership has also identified that the new generation of potential Hayward employees value family connections more than generations before and that messaging is intentional.

There is no doubt in the agency's success with this type of messaging. The Assessment Team spoke with newly hired Police Officers Jujar Singh and Shaniqua "Moe" Bennett, and Community Service Officer (CSO) Bryan Alaping. Each of them said that the decision to come to Hayward was based upon the fact that Hayward made them feel at home and like family. Officer Singh grew up in Hayward, left the Oakland Police Department to join the agency and Officer Bennett is a military transplant who wanted to stay in Hayward.

Many employees are actually referred word of mouth by friends and acquaintances. Employees receive incentives for referring successful candidates. They have an option of 48 hours of compensatory time or a $2000 bonus. Further, new sworn personnel get a $10,000 signing bonus, which is irrespective of rank or previous experience. Perhaps most impressive is the acknowledgement of agency leadership that new employees are an investment in the future and are part of the Hayward family.

The last academy class had six new officers. Four of these officers, including Singh and Bennett made it through academy and Field Training successfully. Two completed academy but did not complete Field Training successfully. Other police agencies may have released these two employees from the organization, but not Hayward. These two officers were placed into vacant Community Services Officer positions. This position is essentially a corrections officer for the jail. This way the employees stay on with the organization, get more time and experience, with a hope they might one day be able to reapply as a sworn officer. This type of connection with the human side of employees makes Hayward exceptional.

The Hayward Police Department uses modern resources and technology to achieve recruiting goals. The agency uses a media consultant to help establish Hayward Police branding. The agency updated recruiting videos, photos, and websites to professionalize and rebrand the recruitment program. The videography focused on humor and showing the warmth at the Hayward Police Department, reiterating the family brand.

The agency also developed educational/informative videos to assist potential recruits. The agency identified that there were many applicants, but very few could complete the physical agility phases, like climbing a wall or doing a one-and-a-half-mile run. They agency developed videos on how to climb a wall, what the recruitment and selection process entails, how to use good nutrition, and a general overview of the background investigation process.

As part of the media program, Hayward Police subscribed to Google Analytics, making Hayward Police a top result in searched for police recruiting. Additionally, agency leadership can see how many people went to each page and how long they were on each page. This information educates the agency on what pages may need to be updated, changed, or enhanced. The agency is also in the beginning stages of launching a recruiting application for mobile platforms. This application allows the user to take a brief survey. If the app identifies that the person may be a good candidate for recruitment, the app sends information to a member of the recruiting team to call the person and/or answer any questions they might have.

The agency's recruitment team consists of 32 members, both professional and sworn. The team is broken down into five smaller teams, each led by sergeants. One team focuses on recruiting from athletic sources, one focuses on police academies and people who have self-sponsored their own police academy attendance, one focuses on colleges and universities, and two focus on diversity recruitment. Much like the operation of the proposed app, potential candidates who reach out to the agency are connected to the Lieutenant over the recruiting program. The lieutenant then forwards that person to a member of the recruiting team who can answer all of the person's questions and help them navigate the process as appropriate. This gives the applicant a very personal touch to the agency.

After being recruited, applicants are vetted through a multistep selection process. The agency has designed this process to eliminate bias and promote community policing. Applicants have a precursory panel interview to get a feel for the applicant and see if they would befit community policing in Hayward. The panel includes one sergeant, one employee from the city of Hayward that does not work for the police department, and a member of the Hayward Community. The applicant completes a survey, which both serves as part of the background check, but also as a tool to be used in the psychological evaluation. Dr. Jocelyn E. Roland, who is certified in Police and Public Safety Psychology, completes the psychological evaluation. A medical and polygraph exam are part of the process. The applicants complete a three-part computer skills test, which include a writing exercise. The writing exercise has two topics—"Why do you want to be an officer?" and "Why Hayward Police Department?" The writing sample looks for three main things. First, does the applicant have solid writing skills? Second, does the applicant have core values? Finally, does the applicant have or attempted to gain knowledge about the community of Hayward itself? The Lieutenant receives these samples blind (no identifying information). This way they can be reviewed without any potential for bias.

Ms. Jen Gomes, an Administrative Assistant, coordinates the selection process. Her role is much of what is typically served by Human Resources. She schedules interviews, fingerprints applicants, schedules background examinations, liaisons with the applicants, and works with the City's HR department to onboard successful applicants. Ms. Gomes notes that her favorite part of her job is getting to play a part in someone getting a job—someone who will become a coworker.

The selection process culminates in an overall review of applicant information and referral for hire. The process is very well organized and consistent. There are many moving parts, which the agency coordinates and manages successfully. The process is innovative, interactive, aims to eliminate bias, and focuses on serving the community of Hayward.

Once selected as an employee for the Hayward Police Department, employees begin training. Captain Matthews, Lieutenant Olsen, and Sergeant Ledzema oversee the agency's training program. Sergeant Ledzema coordinates all internal and POST-mandated training. She also coordinates promotional training. She maintains records of all trainings in an electronic system. Agency retirees, on a per diem basis, coordinate external trainings. The retirees handle the entire training and travel coordination process, including tuition reimbursement.

Training encompasses three major phases—academy, Field Training, and In-Service (ongoing) training. The California Commission on Police Officer Standards and Training (POST) outlines most of the training requirements for sworn officers. POST requirements run biennially. However, Hayward Police opts to exceed many of the training standards, by training annually or more. For example, weapons qualifications are conducted multiple times a year. This accomplishes two things--It provides further exercise of a perishable skill and it provides the agency with leeway in scheduling. For example, if an employee is off on extended leave, their missing one agency qualification will not interrupt their California State Qualification, since the agency trains multiple times a year and POST requires once every two years.

After academy, trainees enter the Field Training phase. Field Training includes four main phases, each four weeks long. After release from Field Training, employees have access to ongoing training, including in-service, specialized, promotional, supervisory, and discretional training. The officer schedule provides for three twelve and a half hour days a week. This schedule allows the officers more time off consecutively, but also allows the agency to schedule a paid ten hour Continued Professional Training (CPT) training day a month. The officers' schedule allows for twelve of these paid days but the agency only schedules nine to avoid major holiday and vacation months. These days focus both on POST-mandated trainings as well as other mandated training.

Specialized training is provided when an officer is placed in a specialized unit, like the School Resource Unit or Investigations. Promotional training is also provided. New supervisors are required to attend two weeks of promotional training. New managers must attend three weeks of promotional training. There is also a popular training called "Inner Perspectives," which is a five-month training program in which trainees learn how to think like a supervisor. Sergeant Ledzema coordinates all of these trainings. There is also an annual Supervisor Retreat in which outside trainers are brought in to conduct workshops on leadership, supervision, and ethics. Hayward Police employees are also entitled to 40-hours of discretionary training. This training is not required and does not have to be directly related to their current position. It is an opportunity for employees to broaden their perspectives, evaluate different areas of policing that they might be interested in pursuing, and prepares them for promotional advancement.

Perhaps the most integral part of the training program at the Hayward Police Department is the presence of mentors, both formally and informally. From officers to leadership, each discussion about their success was related to peer support and mentors. This holistic approach to training is highly valued in the agency.

Social Media Engagement

The Hayward Police Department has a robust social media program. Agency leadership and staff have launched the agency into the social media world, with a focus on branding, messaging, and humanizing the Department. The program takes advantage of a breadth of social media outlets, including Facebook, Nextdoor, Twitter, Nixl, and You Tube.

Hayward Police Lieutenant Puente led the charge to revamp the agency's social media presence. Under his leadership, the agency's social media presence was revised and increased. The agency's Facebook account swelled from approximately 500 followers to the current 19,000 followers. This was achieved by engaging the followers with stories rather than just posting announcements and responding to comments. This interaction builds a relationship with followers. When something negative and/or erroneous is posted, the agency does not need to step in and defend itself, because the engaged followers defend the Department on the platform.

Lieutenant Puente also established Hayward Police as a pilot agency for the Nextdoor neighborhood social media platform. The agency leans heavily on Nextdoor, noting that it is the platform who reaches the agency's true audience—the community of Hayward. Hayward Police Department's Facebook followers are approximately 30% Hayward residents, whereas Nextdoor is 100% persons residing in Hayward. It allows the agency leadership to make sure that Hayward residents are staying informed.

As part of the program's infancy, the Lieutenant fulfilled the agency's public information function. As the social media program has evolved, the agency established the full-time position of "Community Engagement Specialist," which focused on public information, community engagement and social media. This position is essentially a liaison between the community, the media, and the Department. In 2019, this position was assigned to now Sergeant Claudia Mau. Upon her promotion in 2020, Michael Wright became the new Community Engagement Specialist. In addition to the Community Engagement Specialist, all Lieutenants and Sergeants attend "Third Degree" media training so they may assist and back-up the Community Engagement Specialist as needed.

In addition to the Community Engagement Specialist, the agency established a social media committee. In the beginning, this committee was comprised of Captains and some Lieutenants. As it has evolved, the committee now has 10 members, representing multiple agency functions, represented by the Community Engagement Specialist, School Resource Officers, the Community Policing Unit, a crime scene specialist, patrol, and others. The committee meets in person every 2-3 months at a minimum but conducts much of the work via email. Items regarding safety and which are of urgent importance may be posted directly by the PIO, whereas other stories are vetted by the committee. When an idea for a story is posed, the idea is sent to the committee for review and vetting. Messaging is adapted as needed. Information that may be sensitive or have political implications may be elevated to the Chief's level for review, input, and amendment.

One of the decisions that the agency members credit to be a major turning point for the social media and media programs was contracting with a media consulting agency, Cole Pro Media. Media consultants Ken Pritchett and Laura Cole worked with the agency to build its brand, shape its messaging, and build a program for the end customers—the citizens. The approach focuses on storytelling, providing the narrative, and getting the agency message out quickly and accurately.

When the agency first started expanding social media, they decided to start posting the press releases to the social media platforms. This was a major step forward for the agency. A faxed press release allows the media to pick and choose information from the release and shape the narrative of the story. By posting the press releases, the agency could be assured that all the relevant information was public. The collaboration with Cole Pro Media took this idea further. With a press release, all media outlets have access to the same information, which does not make the story exciting or exclusive, so a lot of the "feel-good" are stories ignored. Hayward employees now write the stories and post them to social media. This does three things. First, it allows the agency to get their stories out into public view. Second, it established the narrative of the story, which leaves little opportunity for the media to put a different spin on it. Finally, it provides stories that media outlets can recognize as unique, providing more incentive for media outlets to pick-up these stories as exclusives.

Another main area of success for this program has been media packets, which are assembled after major incidents. The packet often includes the video from the event, a PowerPoint of key information, and a narrative by the Chief of Police. This system, which the agency has practiced, allows the agency to get information out to the public more quickly than previously. The agency had an officer-involved shooting in which the suspect wielded a weapon at police. However, the cell-phone video that was posted on social media was taken from behind, where the viewer could not see the weapon. Protestors gathered outside the Department. The agency quickly put the media packet together and posted it to social media. It could clearly be seen from the officer's vantage point that the suspect was wielding a weapon. The protestors soon dispersed after seeing the information. Videos like this are posted to the agency's You Tube channel, with links embedded into social media posts.

Mr. Ken Pritchett, Media Consultant, credits Hayward Police with the success of the media program. The agency has remained consistent in its efforts. The social media platforms are now full of interesting stories, complete with videos and photos. Agency leadership sees even more to come.

Youth and Family Services Bureau/School Resource Officer Program

Psychologist Dr. Emily Young has overseen the agency's Youth and Family Services Bureau (YFSB) since 2013. The agency's YSFB provides counseling services free of charge for children aged 8-18 and their families. In 2018 funding was received from the Probation Department to expand the services offered by the YFSB. This funding now allows the YFSB to provide delinquency prevention and to provide services to incarcerated youth through a life skills training program. These additional programs allow the agency to expand their impact on youth and families. Dr. Young spoke of the partnerships and the holistic approach to positive youth development in Hayward.

Dr. Young, her staff and the programs they provide have been impacted by the COVID pandemic. YFSB was able to stand up their programs virtually very quickly, allowing them to maintain social distance yet continue to provide valuable services and training. The tele-health technology has actually worked quite well, and allowed YFSB to "add to their toolbox" and become more creative with how they provide services. Dr. Young told the Assessment Team that the silver lining from COVID has been the "capacity leap" she has seen in her staff, and their out of the box way of thinking to find alternative ways to provide these critical services. YFSB has maintained a physical presence in the police building and continues to respond to crisis calls as needed as they are considered essential workers. However whenever something can be done virtually she prefers that in order to keep her staff and their clients safe.

YSFB serves as the crisis counseling team for the Hayward Unified School District. They have partnered with the school district and provide the support needed for the psychological services in the event of a death of a student, teacher, or family member. Dr. Young and her staff also assisted the HUSD to develop protocols for their response to these sensitive incidents.

Dr. Young told the Assessment Team that the agency's School Resource Officers are embedded within the YFSB. Juvenile justice reform is about alternatives and not just enforcement. There is a unique way to "police youth" and Dr. Young provides the psychological background to assist the SROs to accomplish their duties and have positive and meaningful interactions with students. Each member of the YFSB team, sworn and non-sworn, has their own unique role and perspective, and they approach issues as a team using their expertise and education for a successful outcome.

Ms. Cecilia Chavez is a Counseling Supervisor who has served nine (9) years with the Hayward Police Department. She is a licensed clinical social worker, holding a Masters Degree in social work. She told the Assessment Team that the Probation Department provided funds to establish the Delinquency Prevention Network (DPN). When young people are involved in criminal activity the probation court can require counseling services as a condition of probation. Youth and family referrals come from the Probation Department through DPN, get assigned to a YFSB counselor who in turn reaches out to the family to make arrangements for the juvenile to receive counseling services at no cost to the family. The DPN's partner agencies include not only probation and the YFSB, but other agencies who focus on mental health and social services for youth and families. Ms. Chaves told the Assessment Team that YFSB currently has five (5) counselors that can respond to call outs on a twenty-four hour basis. When the State of California issued a shelter-in-place order due to COVID the YSFB was ready and was able to stand up HIPPA compliant-Zoom meetings to continue to conduct counseling services. Agency staff was very creative and stepped up to ensure they could still offer their services and be effective in spite of the pandemic.

Lynette Davis is also a Counseling Supervisor in the agency's YFSB, beginning her career as an unpaid intern twenty (20) years ago. Ms. Davis's primary role is to oversee all school based counseling services on 14 school campuses in the City of Hayward. She said they focus on a positive school climate, positive youth alternatives, supporting and engaging students, teachers, and staff. The goal is early prevention and education. YFSB provides workshops for parents, training for teachers with a focus on social and emotional wellness. Ms. Davis told the Assessment Team that she is most proud of the agency's overall collaboration and the strong relationships with all agencies and the SROs. She said their cyberbullying program for the kids and a separate program for parents is very popular and has been replicated throughout the area. She is also taking the lead in a district-wide professional development series on community engagement and staff wellness.

Officer Stephen Kawada has been with the agency for over six (6) years. Officer Kawada has a background in mental health and working with at-risk youth prior to becoming a police officer. When he decided to become a police officer he was specifically attracted to the agency because of their School Resource Officer program and their innovative Youth and Family Services Bureau. He likes the collaboration in Hayward, the support system provided by the community for at-risk youth, and their team approach to provide a myriad of services for them and their families. Officer Kawada said when the COVID shelter-in place order was issued the SROs assisted the school district with issuing laptop and transitioning students to in-home learning. About one month later due to the campus closures all SROs were re-assigned back to patrol. The schools are still shuttered. Officer Kawada explained his role as an SRO to the Assessment Team, and that agency SROs do not have an enforcement focus. A large portion of their day is spent intermingling with students and staff, and problem solving issues for both. He told the Assessment Team about an incident on a high school campus last year where he had received information about a large fight that was going to occur during lunch hour, and how he, the agency, and school staff worked collaboratively to handle it. Two groups of approximately twenty (20) students gathered to fight and outsiders came onto the campus to engage in the fight. Officer Kawada said that weapons were recovered once they got control of the incident. The agency used social media posts made by some of the students as physical evidence to aid in prosecution. Following the incident one of the school's Vice Principals served as a moderator for a mediation between all students involved. This mediation involved Officer Kawada as the school's SRO, and also incorporated counselors for the YFSB, school coaches, community members, and church members. The group vented, engaged in open dialog and discussion, and as a group talked everything out. There have been no issues between these two groups of students since.

Andrea Garcia has spent eleven (11) years with the agency. She does family and individual counseling, is a clinical licensed social worker, and an adjunct faculty member at San Francisco State University. Ms. Garcia supervises the YFSB's student internship program. She began her career as an intern, and has a passion for assisting interns to fulfill their career goals. Ms. Garcia developed the internship program last summer and implemented it this year. The interns receive college credits and the opportunity to develop skills to assist them in their careers. Currently the agency has two (2) Masters-level social work interns in the program. They perform assessments, answer phones, connect clients with resources, and serve as a co-therapist with her seeing clients. Ms. Garcia said she is most proud and honored to provide grief counseling to victims and families and to be there for them in their moment of need.

Community Outreach Contacts

The Assessment Team spoke to a total of ten (10) community contacts during the site-based assessment regarding the Hayward Police Department's compliance with CALEA standards and the agency's overall performance. The agency is fortunate to have tremendous community support and these members of the public expressed their appreciation for all that the agency does in the interest of public safety.

The Assessment Team spoke with Hayward City Manager Kelly McAdoo. Ms. McAdoo told the Assessment Team that the police department has done a great job with community engagement, particularly during a period in time where there has been a movement nationwide by some to "defund the police." As a result, the City of Hayward has hosted well over 300 community conversations and surveyed their residents regarding their expectations of the police department. Ms. McAdoo said the vast majority of citizens in Hayward overwhelming support the police, but also said they want more funding for mental health related programs. In terms of future challenges facing the agency, she said she thinks retention of employees will be an issue as the policing profession evolves and reforms due to public demand. She stressed that the police department enjoys tremendous community support, and that the leadership team in the agency and in the City of Hayward is stellar.

Chamber of Commerce President Jorge Espinoza has been a resident of the City for twenty-one (21) years, and currently owns a restaurant and sign shop in the City of Hayward. He said he is very involved in the community and enjoys partnering with local organizations to better his community. He described the Hayward Police Department as a valuable partner with community engagement, and as the Chamber President he serves as a conduit to the business community to assist them with their efforts in this area. He spoke about the Holiday Toy Drive and, despite the COVID pandemic, the number of families served has increased this year thanks to the efforts of the police department and the citizens of Hayward stepping up to fill this need. Mr. Espinoza voiced his support for the agency and enjoys a good relationship with the employees, many who frequent his restaurant. He serves as a board member for a local charter school so he understands the value of accreditation and supports his police department and their efforts to maintain CALEA accreditation.

Bishop Jerry Macklin of Glad Tidings Church told the Assessment Team he has been a pastor in this community for over forty (40) years, and he and his wife started the church in the living room of their home in Hayward. He has worked very well with the Hayward Police Department over the years and especially appreciates their community policing philosophy. He has worked in tandem with the agency on the issues involving drugs, gangs, and blight in South Hayward and with their assistance they have made huge strides. He was very complimentary of Chief Chaplin and said he is a "boots on the ground" type of Chief who is "not afraid to come out from behind a desk to serve the community." Bishop Macklin's congregation numbers 1,500 members, and many now volunteer their time to assist with weekly food distribution to families in need due to the pandemic. Bishop Macklin will soon break ground on a recreational center in Hayward that will have a gymnasium and technology center for community youth. He said he looks forward to assisting Sergeant Tommie Clayton with the agency's Police Activity League (PAL) program and providing opportunities for youth in the City of Hayward at the recreational center.

Mr. Chuck Horner has been a resident of Hayward since 1990. He told the Assessment Team he loves the diversity in Hayward and has been the senior pastor at Calvary Baptist Church for thirty (30) years. He has been active in the Hayward Neighborhood Alert program and in that capacity has worked with the agency on public safety and community issues. He enjoys his relationships with Hayward Police Department members, and said many of them have become personal friends of his as a result of their interaction. He spoke of the agency's involvement with the Unity Tour after a Hayward Officer was killed in the line of duty in 2015. Pastor Horner went with them to offer support and be there for them when the cyclists arrived at the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial. He loves his community and his police department, and their community policing approach to public safety. He described the agency as one with high-integrity, very transparent, and very effective at building relationships and showing compassion.

Associate Superintendent Chien Wu-Fernandez of the Hayward Unified School District (HUSD) has been the liaison between the school district and the police department for the last fifteen (15) years. She told the Assessment Team she respects what she termed the "Hayward model", which has their Youth and Family Services Bureau embedded within the police department. YFSB provides free counseling services to Hayward youth and families, and the district utilizes their services frequently. Counselors from the agency's YFSB also serves as crisis team members for the HUSD. The expertise in the agency's YFSB has played a vital role in providing support to students during a crisis, and the agency and school district personnel work in tandem to address the sensitive needs of community youth. She said the agency has further supported the HUSD district by providing six (6) School Resource Officers (SRO) and a sergeant to oversee the SRO program on their campuses. Currently the school district pays for two (2) of these SROs and the City of Hayward pays for five (5) of these employees. The COVID pandemic has caused the majority of in-school learning to be cancelled as students have been attending on-line school since March. Ms. Wu-Fernandez that she likes that the Hayward Police Department's SRO program "is not all about enforcement" but how to support community youth and to serve as mentors. The HUSD appreciates the opportunity for cross-training between the two agencies and the inclusion on staff selection for these assignments. The school district has been involved in selecting SROs by sitting on the selection panel for SRO positions. She also attends monthly meetings with police department staff to keep the lines of communication open.

Ms. Freddye Davis is a member of the Police Chief's Advisory Panel and current President of the Hayward-South Alameda County NAACP. She thinks Chief Chaplin is the "best thing to happen to Hayward" and brings a lot of knowledge and experience to the organization. She said he actually lives in the City of Hayward which she thinks is critical to protect and serve it well. She has had many conversations with Chief Chaplin and knows he is working hard to increase diversity within the agency, and that he is a "hands-on" person. She is very supportive of the agency's efforts to achieve CALEA re-accreditation, and thinks it makes a difference in the quality of policing services provided.

Sid Hamadeh is a local business owner, owning a coffee shop in downtown Hayward, and also a Hayward Rotary Club member. He praised the agency and how they work with the downtown merchants, and told the Assessment Team he is "very proud" of the agency and hard they work on behalf of their community. He spoke of how responsive the agency is at handling calls for service as well as being proactive. He said that COVID-19 has drastically increased the homeless and transient population in Hayward which has created a host of pressure on City services as a result. This has placed additional stress on the agency from his perspective, which he feels is severely understaffed. He said he also thinks the City's budget needs to dedicate the funding necessary to make technological improvements. He said the climate he has seen nationally that does not support law enforcement is not the climate in Hayward. The vast majority of community members overwhelming support and appreciate their police department.

Ms. Davida Scott, has been an alternative-education teacher in Hayward for four (4) years and has worked with at-risk youth for ten (10) years. She was a local high school dropout in the Hayward Unified School District, and now teaches for the same school district she dropped out of. This experience as a youth created a passion that inspired and motivated her to make a difference with at-risk youth and provide them with the tools and resources to become productive and successful. Ms. Scott created a program called "Raising Leaders" for at-risk youth. This vision of Raising Leaders is to offer disadvantaged youth custom-tailored workshops designed to teach them life skills while simultaneously preparing the next generation of workforce members in the community She praised the Hayward Police Department and how well they work with community youth. She began partnering with them under now retired Hayward Police Chief Mark Koller to implement an internship program for community youth to begin career exploration within the agency. This program has continued to serve the youth of Hayward under current Chief Chaplin and Ms. Scott is committed to growing Raising Leaders throughout California.

Mr. Nick Mullins was born and raised in Hayward and is a current City of Hayward Finance employee, serving as a Management Analyst. The City of Hayward has been looking at service delivery in the police department since June amid the current conversation nationwide about the role of police, the potential need for police reform, and social and criminal injustices. The City has been having community conversations with their stakeholders and are in the process of doing a "deep dive" to determine what policing could look like in the future, and how potential changes could impact the police department's budget, yet ensure the City can improve service delivery and relationships as the outcome. Mr. Mullins has been tasked as a member of the City's budget team, to work with agency staff to further examine the agency's budget for potential re-distribution of funds in light of the "defund the police movement". He said the police department has been very responsive, open and transparent. In addition, he said the agency has "handled themselves exceptionally well under the intense scrutiny" they have been under.

Ms. Jennifer Ferreira, a member of the Hayward Concerned Citizens (HCC) group, told the Assessment Team that this group formed after meeting through the app Nextdoor and formed HCC in August. They respect and support the police department and formed in opposition to groups that said they represented all of Hayward residents, and oppose the "defund the police" movement. Ms. Ferreira is a fifty-one (51) year resident of Hayward and her career as a social worker and mother of two children gives her a unique perspective on the City and the challenges. She has interacted with the SROs as a parent and appreciates the manner in which the SROs and Youth and Family Services Bureau approach their duties and the critical role they play in the community. She has been impressed with the agency, Chief Chaplin's approach to transparency and his ability to maintain an open dialogue.
